

Mission: Brad P's Horse Girl Opener

Mission Authoring Coach: Brad P

Mission Goal: Test the opener for fast/high attraction.

Description:

Taking a chance with a SHOCKER OPENER to create a vibe, build social tension and the ability to screen girls for pre-selection.

Rationale:

To hook a girl with a question, use storytelling, then build social tension to create humor and deliver a punch line at the end of your opener. The fun girls should get into it when delivered correctly. This is where the pre-selection comes in.

Instructions:

Test this with single, mixed and straight sets and fill out the questions below when finished. Be as specific with your results as possible.

The Horse Girl Opener:

Point to the girl (target) and wait a moment. Then say:

You: "Do you like horses?"

Her: "Yes/No/Maybe."

You: "Hmmmm. I thought so. Check this out. When I was in sixth grade there was this girl that loved horses. She loved them more than ANYTHING. She would draw horses all over her binders, she would be running all over the playground making horse noises.

(About this time the girl wonders why you are telling her this and starts getting bored with your story, then you deliver the punch line.)

You: "You look JUST LIKE HER."

Reason to test:
